Exhibition and Corporate Support

IEEE Visualization 2003 is the premier forum for innovations in visualization methods in science, engineering, commerce, and entertainment. This event, which runs from Sunday, October 19 through Friday, October 24, brings together visualization researchers and practitioners with an interest in techniques, tools, and technology. The conference will include workshops, tutorials, papers, panels, applications, posters, demos, and exhibitions.

Why Support & Exhibit at Vis 2003?

- Networking - Opportunity to meet over 600 potential customers from companies and institutions specializing in visualization from around the world.
- Optimal Exhibition Times – Exhibits are scheduled to take place in a high traffic area and during times that allow a variety of attendees to visit.
- Visibility - Exhibitor and supporter logos will be added to the conference web page and published in the advance and final program.
- Recruiting Opportunities - Outstanding people knowledgeable in the latest visualization technologies attend this conference.
- Versatile Registration Options - Exhibits-Only registration enables potential customers to see your products without having to register for the full conference.
- Atmosphere - Exclusive access to attendees in relaxed, informal surroundings. This includes the opportunity to host a Birds-of-a-Feather (BOF) session during the conference (contact the Exhibition chair listed below for details).
